

Structure of Articles

Final and full length original paper should submit in the following structure.

Draft Paper

(Title) State the title of the manuscript, which should be short and simple.{Bold, 14 pts}

First Author¹ , Second Author² , Third Author³

¹ Designation, Department, Institution Name, e-mail.

² Designation, Department, Institution Name, e-mail.

³ Designation, Department, Institution Name, e-mail.

Abstract

The abstract is typically a single paragraph. The abstract should be considered as an independent document, so that the abstract should clearly state the objective, hypothesis of the study, evaluation, results with its significance and its impact on the general field of study.

Keywords : Keywords must enable your manuscript to be more easily identified and specific. Avoid general terms and uncommon abbreviations

Tumble Group of International Journals

A Multidisciplinary Journal

Introduction

This provides the necessary background and information about your work. The problems will be addressed through the methodology, general definition or overview of the approach and description of how the data will be collected and analyzed. Write in brief terms what about your work has achieved.

Proceed with the Methodology

The Methodology section should be the bulk of the paper and it must provide sufficient information so that a knowledgeable reader reproduces the experiment. Methods can include statistical, historical, sampling and/or theoretical, case studies, Equations, algorithms, flow charts and figures/tables in the methodology section for descriptive purposes.

Names of the figure should be given in the below format, for example.

Figure 1 : Logo of Tumble Journals (font size 10, alignment centre)

Table number and description should be at the top of the table. See the example.

Table 1: Information about font size(font size 10, alignment centre)

Topics	Style	Font Size
Title	New Roman-Bold	14 pts
Sub headings	New Roman-Bold	12 pts

Conclusions

Put your study into Context, describe how it represents an advance in the field, and suggest future applications.

Acknowledgements

Acknowledge anyone who has helped you with the study.

References

(Check the style and format as required below)

- [1] A. Bonnacorsi, "On the Relationship between Firm Size and Export Intensity," Journal of International Business Studies, XXIII (4), pp. 605-635, 1992. (journal style)
- [2] R. Caves, Multinational Enterprise and Economic Analysis, Cambridge University Press, Cambridge, 1982. (book style)